

ANSWERING BACK

Lecture-Performance-Workshop and Online-Exhibition Veronika Reichl in cooperation with the.SPACE and Institut für alles Mögliche

Answering Back investigates in the format of the lecture as classical format of the presentation of knowledge but also as an artistic means. And it deals with one special case of lectures: the online lecture.

The project is about the lecture as performance: performativity of lectures, lectures as art, lecture-personas, the use of the voice, the relation of saying and showing, the adventure of abstract thoughts and the poetics of dispassion. The project is also about online lectures: about the conventions of online-lectures, about their narrative structures, about all kinds of evidences employed, about body control, about the display of veracity, about humour as device, about tries to activate the observer and about the celebrating the insights.

Lecture-Performance-Workshop: Answering Back

This workshop explores diverse aspects of lectures and lecture-performances. It is about experimenting with manners of speaking and of explaining, and with different relations between telling and showing. If you want to test different forms of lecturing, you need a topic to lecture on. In this workshop our topic are existing online-lectures. The workshop serves also a preparation of the online-exhibitions.

So the workshop has 4 key aspects: 1. Analysing online-lecture, 2. Playing with different ways of speaking and of explaining, 3. Experimenting with different relations between telling and showing, 4. Developing ideas for lecture-performances on existing lectures.

Online Exhibition: Answering Back

In connection with the workshop there will be an online exhibition on the the.SPACE (www.thespacesite.de). All participants of the workshop may take part. The exhibition will consist of online-lecture-performances (whatever that might mean) which answer to existing online-lectures. All the performances will be presented at a showing at Institut für alles Mögliche. The answers might be produced in advanced or they might be performances performed and recorded at the evening of the showing. The next day all works will be online.
